Spiritual Care Services

We help individuals, couples or family members needing emotional support and access to spiritual resources.

Clergy, neighbors, social service providers, family members or individuals themselves can call the Access Department of Grand Prairie Services toll-free at (866) 477-8632 and request Spiritual Care Services.

All services are provided by a multidisciplinary team of mental health professionals, including counselors, therapists and behavioral healthcare workers.

We assist individuals or families who may be experiencing symptoms associated with depression, anxiety, a reaction to major life changes such as unemployment or loss of relationship, or issues specifically related to spirituality.

When you call to request Spiritual Care Services, your call will be directed to a spiritual counselor. The counselor will talk with you to determine the nature of your request. You and the counselor will decide together how to best address the challenges identified.

Trained behavioral healthcare staff conduct all services which include the following:

- ◇ Individual and family counseling services that are respectful of religious and spiritual values.
- ◇ Referral for individuals requesting assistance in identifying sources of worship in the community.
- ◇ Assistance for individuals in evaluating their spiritual views and needs.
- ◇ Aid to individuals in making decisions about their care in keeping with their spiritual beliefs and values.
- ◇ Support for individuals and families regarding their treatment needs as it relates to their spiritual and religious views.
- ◇ Spiritual and religious counseling for individuals and families who may be affected by a terminal illness.
- ◇ Education and training for the religious community in the area of religion/spirituality and behavioral healthcare.
